Yes. There are far too many time wasting consultations. More action is needed. Birmingham has so many empty warehouses and big buildings. Send a team of carpenters in to section them off into rooms and dorms. They don't need to be plush - just somewhere with a bed and a blast of heat for the night.

The majority of these empty buildings already have toilets. It wouldn't be too expensive to install a few showers.

To many of these unfortunate people, it would be like going to the Ritz. They'll have safe shelter from the cold street's.
