The addendum provides a comprehensive overview of the plans and it is encouraging to see that all aspects of rough sleeping have been covered including a specific commitment to trying to address migrant homelessness issues. There is a clear desire to work in an integrated way with all sections of the community and the recognition of their ability to contribute to preventing rough sleeping and supporting long term move on is a positive and constructive approach. Truly affordable and good quality accommodation continue to be major issues that put people at risk of rough sleeping and it would be good to see more on how the standard of provision can be quality assured particularly within the exempt sector. However, the ambition to address these issues does come through in the addendum.
